Jenny Wolfe and the Pack's Debut CD

SteadyBoy Records is proud to announce the April 10, 2007 release of Jenny Wolfe and the Pack. It's the first CD from a talented group of Austin, Texas teens.

style. With passion.

Listen to this CD, and you'll quickly realize that this is no novelty act, it's the real deal. These are real kids, all born in the nineties and all in love with the very real rock and roll from the sixties and beyond. The Pack plays to the beat of a different drum, with a jangly guitar sound behind a powerful voice with a faint hint of Texas accent, which only makes sense. Jenny and the band hail from deep in the heart of Texas and deep in the heartbeat of rock and roll.

No member of the Pack is a day past sweet little sixteen, and Jenny's just thirteen, not that you can tell when she opens her mouth to sing. Hers is a voice that packs a punch, with Sheryl Crow attitude, Linda Ronstadt energy, and a rock and roll heart.

C'mon everybody, do you wanna have some fun.
C'mon everybody, do you wanna have some fun.
Come hear the noise coming from Room 51.

"Room 51" was written just for the Pack by mentor, producer, and friend, Freddie Steady Krc (rhymes with search). Krc has been fronting rock and roll bands since the Beatles rocked Ed Sullivan's theater, when he was even younger than Jenny and the Pack. These days, Krc performs with his Freddie Steady 5 and his revived Explosives, who serve as Roky Erickson's band in his recent re-entry into the rock and roll arena.

So how does a veteran rocker who's busy reviving the career of a sixties innovator find himself working with a garage band that's still too young to take the car out of the garage? Easy, and it's one of those only-in-Austin deals. Krc was their instructor at Natural Ear Music, the first School of Rock of its kind in the U.S. No sheet music or scales at Natural Ear, it's just as the name implies: music played naturally and by ear. Nothing fancy, just real rock and roll, Chuck Berry-
